

Helm of Awe

Written by Strandagaldur
Saturday, 03 December 2005 08:50

Helm of Awe exists in various forms though all are a variation of crosses with three-forked ends. It is mentioned in Eddic poetry and was a fear inducer and a protection against the abuse of power. It was to be carved in lead, and pressed on one's forehead.